ATIMELY WARNING.

CMI William Curtic Approve thop Potter's Sermon.

He Thinks the Time and Place Well

Civil-Service Reformers Express Their Approval of It.

An Evening World reporter visited George William Curtis, the faithful advocate of a reform of the civil service and the adoption of methods which shall secure purity of elections, to-day to obtain his views upon the much-talked-upon ermon of Bishop Potter.

Mr. Curtis was found "spread out" on an Mr. Curtis was found "spread out" on an invalid chair in the cosy study of his delightful listen laind home.

"I played law is improving," he said, as he important when the floor to greet the reporter.

"I played lawn tennis too hard last Summer and strained my lest. Water came on my kneeday and I have been a cripple, tied up here all winter. I saw only that part of the Centennial celebration which occurred on the bay.

"Yes, I read Blahop Potter's sermon in The wonly with much interest, and I have read the comments and criticisms which it called out.

HE LIEED THAT SERMON.

"I liked that ermon altogether. I think the time and place were well chosen, the thoughts were very sound, the words most fitting, and the whole occasion most impressive; and the result, I have no doubt, will be most useful. "Bishop Potter seems to me to have been very unjustly secured of exceeding the proprieties and courtesies of the occasion, but I know of no higher duty that a Christian minister has to discharge than upon great public occasions of this kind to measure the conduct of public officers by the plain principles of public moral-

There was nothing personal, nothing invid-ious, nothing unfair in the sermon. It was the anniversary of the manururation of Washington, he was speaking to Washington's successor and the great officers of Administration, and he stated simply, strongly and clearly the princi-ples that guided Washington and upon which he planted the Government.

pleased the Government.

A FOUNTAIN OF HONOR NOT OF SPOILS.

"He pointed out the fact that Washington consciously and expressly governed his conduct by the Christian law; that he regarded the Government as a fountain of honor, and not of spoils; that the holding of office under that Government was to be viewed solely as a trust and not as a reward in any other sense than his own case illustrated, where the highest effice was bestowed upon him as a mark of the utmost confidence of the people in his strict adherence to the principles that he professed.

"If the statement of these well-known facts impressed any hearer with a sense of his own short-coming in such respects, the preacher was no more guilty of a misuse of the occasion than if if the presence of robbers he had denounced theft.

it the presence of robors in a mad denounced theft.

"The only reason that I can see why anybody should have supposed impropriety is that the critic felt that telling the truth about Washington would rebuke somebody else.

"There is no man more thoughtful of all real proprieties; no man more candid, fairer or more courteous in his treatment of public queetions that may have personal bearings than Bishop Potter.

"If it occurred to him in preparing his discourse that he could not tell the truths that were in his mind without an apparent personal application, he probably felt that his responsibility was to a higher master than any one of his congregation.

"I think the Bishop's explanation of the reference to Jeffersonian simplicity and Jacksonian yulgarity, which I have just read in Tax World, is a plain, simple and natural one.

In general I should say that in the moment of natural pride and exaltation at the gompletion of the triumphant century of our Government the sermon was a strong expression of the fact that, besides the great occasion for satisfaction which all the other orators were sure to express, there was equal occasion to remember that in some respects we have fallen below the standard of the fathers. The pulpit was, perhaps, the most proper place for such an expression, because it is the duty of the pulpit to admonish and warn and call to repentance.

IT was NECSEARY.

"In fact, I think that the sermon of Bishop

"In fact, I think that the sermon of Bishop Potter was necessary to complete the proper and true expression of the National feeling upon so great and significant an occasion.

"In regard to the situation in Washington's time: There was undoubtedly the same general moral evaluation of feeling during the Revolution that there was during the civil war. A party feeling in our modern sense existed rather prospectively than actually. That is to say, it centred about the Constitution as favoring or opposing it.

centred about the Constitution as favoring or opposing it.

"During Washington's Administration party feeling ran very high, as shown at the time of the Jay treaty and the stoning of Hamilton when he made a speech in New York.

"This was the party spirit against which Washington warned us in his farewell address. But the paculiar venality which arises from researches the patronars of the Government as gasding the patronage of the Government as spoils, and which presents fifty or sixty millions of dollars as a prize to be fought for, and as the piunder of victors, did not yet exist.

"Moreover, the direct use of enormous private sums of money under the name of legitimate election expenses had not yet begun. Buying of elections, in the sense with which we are familiar in these days, was unknown in the time I Washington. MERCENARY POLITICS.

MERCEMARY POLITICS.

"It is this mercenary character of politics which is the result of an enormous patronage, considered merely as party spoils, which I suppose the Bishop to have had in mind in that particular passage of his sermon referring to the dageneracy of the times.

The political methods with which we are familiar, and which are collectively known as the machine, were then but just beginning. The spoils system really began under the old counsel of appointment in New York, but it was many years before it seriously invaded the National Government.

"I should say that our chief danger at the present time is the enormous use of money, and of course an illioit use of money at elections and a disposition to make light of it.

"One of the great benefits to be derived from eivil-service reform is the regulation upon reasonable principles of the vast expenditure of the public money in the form of patronage." OUR CHIEF DANGER.

APPROVED BY REFORMERS. Everett P. Wheeler, 45 William street, said;
"Bishop Potter's remarks were very wise and just and fully in keeping with his duties as a biergyman. My views are expressed in the resolution offered by me at the meeting of the New York Civil -Service Beform Association on Wednesday night."
The following is the resolution to which Mr. Wheeler refers:

Whoeler refers:

Baseles f. That the thanks of this association be and delivered in St. Pan's Church on the Centennial of the manguration of George Washington.

William Potta, Secretary to the Civil-Service Basiorm Association, 35 Liberty street, said: "As fair as able he struck the keynote to the situation. Of course it is easy to mistake the utterances of those who thrust themselves forward as the utterances of the people at large, and therefore to misjudge the actual attitude of the people as a whole. But it is the unfortunate characteristic of the time that the people as a whole permit themselves to be publicly represented by those whom Bishop Potter has so clearly and indigmantly described.

"The prominent features of this great celemated hat his there is a sound public conscience and interest in more important things; but, in the mean time, in the political field and in many others the demagogue rules the hour and flouts worthy of honor."

IT WAS TIMELY. IT WAS TIMELY.

Ira Bursley, 64 South street—The address was timely, and the Bishop chose a good opportunity to remind the people of the evil of the present time. Bishop Potter's views are injuried by all business men, and all agree that so machine—whether Republican or Democratic—should rule the hoor.

"The time was ripe for it, as everybody was thinking of Washington, and it was a good time to call attention to the way that elections are sow conducted."

PRAISED ONE RUNDRED TRANS HENCE. A. R. MacDonough, 21 Cortlandt street—It has made its historic mark, and it is the one shing done on this occasion that will be read and praised 100 years hence.

Comptroller Myers said: "My opinion of Bishop Potter's sermon is that the occasion did not warrant any such remarks. It showed very poor issis on his part."

Assistant District Attorney Dawson said: "I think it was the most remarkable exhibition of moral nerve that I ever heard of from a minister, of was rather offended at his remarks about Gen, Jackson until he explained himself." Regarding his expressions on merchantable ideas ruling the hour I think he was right, and the sooner these abuses are corrected the better for the country. There should be no criticism as to the Bishop's taste in speaking of these things. He though it his duty to speak out, and duty should overrule taste always. The best opinion I have heard was expressed by a lady at my breakfast-table the other morning. She read the sermon carefully and then said: "If it is true, he ought to have said it."

UNWORTHY OF THE OCCASION

"If it is true, he ought to have said it."

UNWORTHY OF THE OCCASION.

Lawyer James B. C. Drew, ex-Attorney-General of Florida and now of this city, a well-known scholar in American history, said:

"I shink that the Bishop's address was conceived in bad taste and totally unworthy of the occasion and the visiting guests. It seems to me that the comparison which he draws between the Revolutionary times and those of the present is not founded and sustained by the history of those periods. The fact is that there has been a very great toning down of the party bitterness, and the comparison, if drawn at all, would be rather in favor of the present times. That the ideal standard of political virtue was high during the times of Washington's Administration is undoubtedly true. So it is to-day, but the fact still remains that the appointments made by President Washington during the two terms of his Administration were more of less partisan in their character, which no one can deny, that his Cabible's were composed in the main of men of the strict Federalistic school, and that his Administration was conducted to promote the interests of the Federal party. This may be seen by examining the contemporaneous correspondence of Jefferson, Hamilton, Elisworth, Knox and others.

"But the most remarkable portion of the Bishop's address seems to me to be that which sought to depreciate the character and influence of Jefferson and Jackson. To say that the simplicity of Jefferson had come to be the vulgarism of Jackson, seems to me to be almost a crime saxinst the memories of those great and patriotic men, who bore such a noble and honorable part in the history of this country, and regret exceedingly as a citzen of New York and of the United States that the Hishop should have chosen an occasion like this to have delivered such an ill-advised and unintelligent criticism on the history of the past and of the present. Aside from George Washington, I know of no two other names which have become an dear to the American people as those of

NOT FROM THE PRACTICAL SIDE OF LIPE. Lawyer George F. Duysters, Equitable Build-ing—I think that the entire address of Bishop Potter was largely born of that ignorance of the practical affairs of life which is characteristic of some of those whose time and energies are largely devoted to things spiritual.

BORNE TO THE GRAVE.

The Remains of the Late W. H. Barnum Laid to Rest To-Day.

ISPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD. BRIDGEPORT, May 3, .- The express from New York this morning brought a special car in which were Ex-President Cleveland and his party including Col. Dan Lamont, on their way to attend the funeral of the late William H. Barnum, at Lime Rock,

H. Barnum, at Lime Rock,
The special train for the latter place left at 10, 30.
There was a crowd at the depot here, in expectation of seeing the ex-President, but he kept himself behind the curtains of the car.

A number of people entered the coach and were presented to Mr. Cleveland, but owing to the solemnity of the occasion which called him here there was no demonstration beyond the gathering of the crowd.

Among the people on the train to Lime Rock were Senator McDonald and Col. Bright, of Indiana; Calvin S. Brice, J. W. Savin, Dr. Chisholm, Gen. Le Fever, ex-Gov. Loomis, C. M. Jordan, Col. E. B. Dickinson and many other personal and political friends of the dead man.

direction of the campaign for the party to which he was loyal.

The Bridgeport train arrived at Lime Rock station at noon, and carriages and busses conveyed the party two miles to the village.

Air. Cleveland and ex-tiov. Loomis rode together in a light surrey.

Every dwelling and every store in the place had crape rosettes upon its doors.

The services at the house were brief, and were conducted by Rev. R. F. Putnam.

The body of the dead man was laid in an exidized silver casket, covered with black broadcloth.

After the house services a procession was formed and proceeded to Trinity Church.
About three hundred employees of the Brook
Pit mines followed the carriages.
The pall-bearers were P. S. Burrall, S. P.
Eusign, Miles B. Richardson, James L. Richardson, George M. Walton and George Cowdry.
The church was completely filled. The funeral sermon was delivered by Rev. R. F. Putnam and the service was conducted by Rev. Milledge

Smith Served with a Show-Cause Order

Will the New Commissioner Open an Office on His Own Account ?

Shortly after 10 o'clock this morning D. Low ber Smith put in his appearance at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works and was served by Under Sheriff John B. Saxton with the order issued by Judge Barrett yesterday, com pelling him to show cause why he should no turn over the books and records of the office to Mayor Grant's appointee, Thomas F. Gilroy. Mr. Sexton had been hunting for Mr. Smith since 1.30 P. M. yesterday, and had had his residence, 70 West Eighty-third street, guarded all night, but Mr. Smith had successfully eluded the Sheriff's officers and evaded service

Mr. Hewitt's Commissioner said that he had been engaged at his attorney's and at his clubd He denied attempting to avoid the service of Judge Barrett's order.

Under Sheriff Sexton said that he thought that Mr. Smith made the last statement with a mental reservation, as it is his opinion that he was keeping out of the way until the injuction order secured by him against Mr. Gilroy was served on the latter.

This order was issued out of the Superior Court and signed by Judge Truax after Mr. Gilroy had begun his proceedings.

They asked that Mr. Gilroy be enjoined from commencing any legal proceeding or continuing one which might have been commenced to compel Mr. Smith to deliver possession of the books and records of the Department of Public Works to the Tammany Hall Commissioner.

They also asked that Mr. Gilroy be restrained from entering and taking possession of the Department of Public Works building by force or violence and from interfering with Smith in the discharge of the duties of Commissioner.

A third request was that Mayor Grant's appointee be prohibited from establishing an office of his own or performing the duties of Public Works Commissioner.

Only the second of these requests was granted, and Mr. Gircy was simply prohibited from interfering with Mr. Smith or taking the office by forcible means.

'I don't think that he will oppose the motion to make that injunction permanent," said Wm. H. Clark, one of Mr. Gircy's counsel, this morning. It only enjoins us from doing something we didn't propose doing.

'It in no way interferes with our legal proceeding and does not prevent us from establishing an office and performing the duties of Commissioner.

"Will Mr. Gilroy establish a new office?" Mr. Clark was asked.

"He may be compelled to, but that involves a request to the Sinking Fund Commissioners and additional expense to the city, which we would like to avoid.

Mr. Clark said that Mr. Smith would probably be allowed his injunction by default while his counsel push the case before Judge Barrett.

"If we are successful," said he, "we will look Smith up and the Shariff will be given a search warrant for the books and papers.

Mr. Smith's injunction effectually precludes the possibility of the expected battle of Chambers street, and relieves D. Lowber of the cost of maintaining an expensive garrison to defend his castle.

The grumbling is confined almost exclusively o the Tammany Hall organization, and particto the l'ammany fiall organization, and particularly to the disappointed caudidates and their backers.

The appointees who are particularly objected to are Fire Commissioners Robbins and Eickhoff. Excise Commissioner Meakim and President of the Board of Health Wilson.

Nother of these men is identified with any political organization, and Commissioner Robbins is even accused of voting the Republican ticket.

Robbins is even accused of voting the Republican ticket.

The Tammany district leaders are not outspoken in their disapprobation, but they are far from being warm in their praise, while the rank and file do not hesitate to condemn.

Of the objectionable candidates it is said that Fire Commissioner Eickhoff has been continuously in office for a great many years, and is taken out of the Fifth Auditorship of the Treasury to be given a $5,000 municipal berth.

TO FURNISH THE SUMMER COTTAGE. How to Make It Look Pretty at the Minimum of Expense, The other day a young matron was showing with great pride a very handsome suit of parlor furniture, which she had just purchased for her pretty flat. It was one of the "rug sets," in five pieces, beautifully upholstered, and covered with soft Wilton rugs in delicate and neutral tints. It harmonized with the new curtains and hangings, and was altogether lovely.

"Guess what it cost," cried the proud young housewife. And then, when nobody came near the price, she said it had been purchased for $57.50 at Sol Heyman & Co.'s big furniture establishment, at the northeast corner of Fifty-ninth street and Third avenue. Among other destrable purchases she had made at the same place was a folding-bed of antique oak, with a long bevelled plate-glass mirror set in it, and a woven wire spring mattress that can be easily removed for dicaning purposes—thus meeting successfully an objection which many people offer to "put-up Leds."

Heyman & Co. are great at furnishing summer cottages. The mattings, a pretty quality of the Chinese weave, cost only $3,50 a roll. In the parlor they put a big rug, covering the centre of the room, and a pretty plush suit of furniture, costing only $38, looks quite sumptuous. A couple of bedroom sets, one in antique oak, and the other in cherry finish, with plate mirrors over the dreasing-tables, cost only $1.50. With what has been saved on these articles and the dining-room furniture, some pretty single chairs, a dainty table for afternoon tea, and a really handsome hall-rack with mirror and bench can be added. SCHOOL CHILDREN CELEBRATING ITS PIRST OBSERVANCE.

Draper-Dedicating Trees to Prominent Notables-Voting on the Favorite Trees -The Custom Was First Established in Nebruska in 1879.

To-day, the first "Arbor Day" in this State was celebrated by the children and teachers in all the public schools.

Special exercises of a literary and musica character were held, and in some instance trees were planted, as suggested by State Supt.

Draper in his circular letter to principals of schools in all parts of the State. The purpose of the Legislature in establishing Arbor Day was to develop and stimulate in the children a love and reverence for nature as reealed in trees, shrubs and flowers.

Supt. Draper suggested that on this occasio t would be specially appropriate to dedicate one ree in each district to Washington.

The celebration of the day in this city has been

The celebration of the day in this city has been interfered with by the Centennial celebration. The schools were closed on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and yesterday was the only day to arrange the programme.

The schools in the Kineteenth Ward will probably celebrate the day more fully than in any other section of the city.

Long before Supt. Draper's notice was sent out the trustees began arranging for the festivities. The full programme of the ceremonies to be conducted in the schools, as arranged by Supt. Draper, includes the reading of the Scriptures, prayer, reading of law establishing Arbor Day, recitations, declamations, brief addresses by principals, essays by scholars, voting on the question "What is the favorite tree" organizations of local "Shade-Tree Planting Associations" and song, "America."

And then comes the programme at the tree.

Everything is in readiness when the children arrive, in o.der that there may be ho delay. After a marching song has been sung on the way to the tree, the following order of exercises is carried out:

1. The tree is placed in position.

is carried out:

1. The tree is placed in position.

2. Song.

3. A brief statement by the teacher of who the tree is dedicated to.

4. Recital of quotations from the writings of the persons thus honored.

5. Each pupil of the class deposits a spadeful of earth.

of earth.

6. Song.
Supt. Draper gives some valuable information concerning the selection of trees and the method of planting and caring for them.

The full programme will be carried out in some of the schools in other cities, but in New York it is utterly impracticable.

Arbor Day originated in Nebraska in 1872. It has since been established in thirty-four States and two Territories.

Statistics show that there have been planted in Nebraska since Arbor Day was first established 355,560,000 forest, shade and fruit trees.

lished 355,560,000 forest, shade and fruit trees.

After the ceremonies in the schools in this State the principals report to Supt. Draper the number of trees planted and the result of the vote on the question as to the favorite tree.

There was great confusion in the public schools in this city this morning.

The children in a number of the schools came prepared only for Arbor-Day exercises, but were surprised to find their teachers in their different class-rooms ready to go on with the regular school exercises.

Arbor Day is being observed very generally in Long Island to-day.

At Babylon, Breslau, Amityville, Patchogue, and a number of other places along the south shore trees were planted and there were public exercises.

At Breslau the celebration began in the public school at 10 o'clock. The teachers planted a tree and the tender shoot was named "The Washington" in comemmoration of the Centennial.

Just where the mistake occurred and the fact

Just where the mistake occurred and the fact that the Arbor Day programme was not received by some of the Principals, will form a subject for investigation by the Commissioners of the Board of Education.

At Grammar School No. 15, on East Twenty-seventh street, Principal Lafayette Oiney stated that the misunderstanding or mismanagement dampened the enthusiasm intended to be created by the exercises.

Principal Louis Clousen, of School 48, and Principal Clara Edmunds, of Grammar School 23, corroborated Mr. Olney's statement.

DEAD AT HIS CHILD'S GRAVE

Found in Greenwood Cemetery with a Bullet in His Brain-His Business Venture He Was Despondent-He Leaves a Wife

William White, one of the most popular res-taurateurs who ever did business in this city. committed suicide near his daughter's grave last night. home at 509 Frst street, Brooklyn, this morning, Mrs. White was found weeping and nearly heart-broken. She said she did not know what could have induced her husband to take his life. Of late she said he had complained constantly of headaches.

His place of business in this city was at 36 Pine street. He was there as usual vesterday morning, but started for home at noon time. He had a short conversation with his wife, and morning, but started for home at noon time. He had a short conversation with his wife, and left the house again, saying he was going to return to New York.

He did not do so. Instead he went to Greenwood Gemetery.

A beloved daughter, who died ten years age, is buried there. Mr. White never ceased grieving over her death. Twice a week he visited her grave and strewed flowers upon it.

He went there yesterday. About 6 c'clock in the evening a policeman heard a pistol shot, and upon investigating found Mr. White near the grave, with a bullet-hole in his forehead. A seven-chambered revolver was clutched in his right hand.

He was removed to the Seney Hospital, where he died. Coroner Rooney granted a permit for the removal of his body to his home.

It was business troubles as The Events World reporter learned to-day, which caused him to die by his own hand. About seven years ago he bought out Cable's restaurant, at 36 Pine street.

He did well then, and once told a friend that he was clearing $4,000 a year. Two years ago he went into partnership with a young man named Robinson, and they opened another place at 15 Wall street.

From that time his troubles date.

When he was in charge of the Pine street place he used to say he did well, and the one in wall street loct money. When he superintended things in the Wall street house the Pine street house did not pay. Finally, on the first of this year, he dissolved the partnership.

Hobinson continued the Wall street place, but gave it up the Pine street house to his creditors, but they kept him in charge as manager.

He leaves besides a wife, three children, the eldest a girl seventeen years old.
